Philippe Manoff, you're going to leave a message, but also...

So we were talking about it earlier, Dominique Besmehar.

Ah, well, that's for sure.

Hello.

I'm...

I'm...

I'm...

I'm happy to meet you.

By the way, Konrad,

it's the first time I'm happy to have a speech on the language.

Well, if I were dyslexic, I won't tell you the nightmare to call you Konrad.

Well, otherwise, what do you do when you write the next album by Asterix, which is going to be massacred in cinema by Guillaume Canet?

Oh, that's bad.

Ah, yes, that's bad.

And Stéphane Berne, finally.

Well, hello.

My dear Fab Caro,

such a pro-chevalier,

you were adopted by the daughter of René Gossini.

She tells you that her father would have loved your work.

And I, too, was recognized by my father.

Well, by my mother.

The queen who, in 2008,

was raised in the ranks of Grand Susboul de la Couronne.

That's for, of course, the responders of our comrades.

Marc-Antoine Lebré.
