The number one audio Chuck podcast killed is back with 10 new stories that are bigger and more wild than ever.

Ethics is our weapon.

We go up against people who are wealthy and powerful, influential.

What do we have on our side?

We have the truth.

There should have been nothing but enthusiasm for this story.

The minute these editors learned about it, there should have been a sense of urgency.

They just wanted it to go away.

But these stories aren't going anywhere.

I'm Justine Harmon, and every day, important stories die on the editing room floor, killed by the people in power.

They seem to be artificially depressing numbers of people who have died.

I felt they were setting their sights on people who didn't have a lot of money.

There is nothing I wouldn't do for a story back then.

I still have faith that journalism matters.

Listen to the stories you were never meant to hear.

All new episodes of Killed begin dropping now.

Each episode is standalone, so you can jump into the season anywhere with any story that peaks your interest.
