

[Transcript] The News Agents / This week on The News Agents USA: A power vacuum in Washington and chaos in the Middle East

This is a global player original podcast.

It's hard to do the news agents USA without reflecting on what has happened in Israel and the potential instability it causes to the region, but also what it's doing to American politics as well about what should happen next.

There is a massive leadership vacuum where the speaker once sat, I say once, he left. He was kicked out a week ago.

Today we're asking what that vacuum is doing to the state of the Republican Party and how the Democrats should respond.

We're also looking at a Kennedy, Robert F. Kennedy, who has announced that he's going to run as an independent and has been denounced by all his family members for having done it and has upset Republicans and Democrats with that move.

But he still thinks he can win the presidency, the news agents USA, on global player.
