This is a Global Player Original Podcast.

On the news agency USA Today, we have breaking news because Donald Trump has just been issued with a target letter. We're going to talk you through what that means. Essentially, a charge could follow this because it comes from the special counsel, Jack Smith, and it relates to his potential involvement in the January the 6th riots.

So not satisfied with being the first president ever to be indicted, not once, not twice, it looks like there's a third indictment coming and possibly a fourth. But is Donald Trump cowed by this? Course is not. Available for your morning commute every Wednesday on Global Player, search for the news agency USA.

This has been a Global Player Original Podcast and a Persephoneka production.
